

Call for Articles

American Studies in Scandinavia (AsiS)

American Studies in Scandinavia is a respected and traditional (established in 1968) peer-reviewed journal in American Studies. It is interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary, inclusive to academic specialties as varied as history, literature, politics, geography, media studies, ethnic studies, culture studies, law, economics, and linguistics. We currently draw manuscript submissions from authors around the world. American Studies in Scandinavia also strives to be the journal where Nordic Americanists come together in meaningful intellectual exchange. We want to offer an inviting venue for Nordic scholars to publish their latest research, express their ideas, and build a sense of academic community.

We are seeking exciting and vibrant articles from a broad range of scholarly fields relating to American Studies. Send your inquiries and manuscript submissions to the new editor Dr. Janne Lahti at janne.lahti@helsinki.fi. If you have a book to review or would like to review one, contact Prof. Pirjo Ahokas at pirjo.ahokas@utu.fi.

For guidelines check:

<https://sites.google.com/site/naasstudies/journal-american-studies-in-scandinavia>